

REPUBLICANS SAY JUDGESHIP RACE IS A PARTY FIGHT

Contestants Declare Democrats Are Out of Running and They Have Started After Plum.

While the Democratic aspirants for the federal judgeship for West Tennessee have not abandoned their applications pending in the department of justice and being considered by the president, the Republican lawyers are serene in their confidence that the only question worth while to consider is which one of them will get the appointment.

It is not likely that an immediate appointment, following the death of Judge John E. McCall, which caused the vacancy, would have hastened confirmation or tended to strengthen the prospect for confirmation as the election intervened between the time the vacancy occurred and the time for the meeting of the congress in December. The senate with a majority of two will be largely strengthened in Republican faith in March, and the assurance that the Republican party will be able to eventually secure the place is a strong barrier in the face of Democratic ambitions.

In fact, local Republicans scout the idea that there is even the remotest prospect for confirmation even if President Wilson should decide to make the appointment upon the convening of congress. They are confident that the judiciary committee of the senate, with a Republican majority, would carefully pigeon-hole the appointment and delay confirmation until such time as the White House is occupied by one of their own political party, and make an appointment to accord with their party.

It is with this assurance that the advocates of Republican aspirants are openly making a fight for their choice, which will of necessity be delayed until Senator Harding assumes the presidency.

A Big Field.

Among the available lawyers who are being urged for the place are Harry B. Anderson, F. S. Elgin, Randall Haun, S. E. Murray and W. S. Randolph of Memphis, and Judge J. W. Ross, of Jackson.

No one seems to know which has the advantage. Mr. Anderson has been prominent in the fight for a number of years. His father stands high in the councils of the party, and would count as nothing any honor for himself as compared with the appointment of his son. In fact, Mr. Anderson, Sr., is not an aspirant for anything.

Mr. Elgin has been prominent in federal court practice since he came to Memphis. He was a close personal friend of the late Judge McCall, who intrusted him with several appointments as the representative of the court.

Mr. Haun was assistant to the late Casey Todd, when he was district attorney, and is familiar with the workings of the court in addition to being a good lawyer, like the rest of the applicants.

Mr. Murray has been prominent in party affairs also and took a prominent part in the Republican national convention, which was held at the Church out as a delegate from the Tenth congressional district. He is said to have influential friends among the East Tennessee contingent, but the same may be said of Mr. Randolph is a well known local lawyer whose family has long been connected with the traditions of Memphis. His brother, George Randolph, is a former United States district attorney and he is himself a lawyer of recognized ability. His affiliation with the Citizens League and other local organizations having the advancement of the city as their purpose and without political association, has identified him with local affairs, other applicants.

Judge Ross, of Jackson, is said to be a satisfactory judge and has his strength also but it is outside of Memphis. In fact it is believed that the appointment will be made through the operation of influence outside of Memphis, notwithstanding the fact that 90 per cent of the litigation in the court originates in Memphis.

There is no lack of talent and no dearth of applications for the judgeship. The contest has at least five months to go and will grow livelier as it proceeds. There is no means of forecasting the result but it may be taken as assured that none of the applicants will overlook any opportunity to make the best possible showing.

Thirty Fined As Gamblers In Court

Thirty gamblers came to grief in city court Wednesday. Attorney Joe Bearman waived the presence of 29 of them. George Brown, proprietor of a cigar stand in the rear of which a police raid was made, was the only one present. Police say many of the gamblers were prominent men locally, and that all gave fictitious names. A table in the courtroom was heaped high with evidence collected by officers—cards, poker chips, racing forms, and other gambling devices.

Brown claimed that he operated a cigar stand at Monroe and Second, and that he knew nothing about what transpired in the rear. Officers, however, showed that the only entrance was through the cigar store, and told the court of a secret door which led to the rear. It was through this door the raid was made.

Fines of $10 each were entered with an additional fine of $50 for running a gaming house against Brown. He also was bound to the state.

NORMAL SCHOOL OFFERS CORRESPONDENCE WORK

The West Tennessee Normal school is preparing to offer courses of study by correspondence to students who are unable to attend the winter session. The work will begin Jan. 1, and a good enrollment for the correspondence work is promised. Instruction will be given under the supervision of the same teachers that compose the regular school faculty.

Bifurcated Robe In Batik Design

BY ELOISE.

This costume was designed for a Pullman robe, but it would be far better for wear in midday's boudoir as bifurcated garments are much harder to manipulate than the ordinary kimono in a Pullman berth. They are fast gaining in popularity, however, and are really very comfortable and do away with the necessity for a petticoat or bloomers. This suit was designed for a pretty actress, but it has been copied by one of the leading shops and now many a home woman will spend her leisure moments in a Turkish lady. Rich purple silk crepe is used to fashion the mantles and the blouse features batik work, which is so very fashionable just now. The blouse is a slipover, loose fitting style with a truly artistic batik design and deep fringe trimmings. This costume would make a very lovely Christmas gift.

MAYFLOWER COMPACT WILL BE CELEBRATED

Memphis One of 70 Cities to Mark Historic Event.

Memphis has been selected as one of the 70 American cities where the American Mayflower council will celebrate the birthday of American democracy, which was the signing of the Mayflower compact, signed on board the Mayflower in Provincetown harbor, 300 years ago today.

The date selected for Memphis is Sunday afternoon, Nov. 21. At each of these meetings there will be a distinguished American and also a prominent man from the other side. Dr. Samuel A. Eliot, of Boston, and M. Andre Monod, of France, will speak at the Memphis celebration, which will be held in Goodwyn institute.

M. Monod comes to this country as one of the representatives of the French government to attend the centenary exercises of the American Mayflower council.

The headquarters of the American Mayflower council are in New York. President Wilson and ex-President Taft are honorary chairmen. Henry Van Dyke is the honorary secretary.

Home-made Remedy Stops Coughs Quickly

The best cough medicine you ever used. A family remedy easily and quickly made. Saves about $2.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough, is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few moments. It's cheap, but for prompt results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant, too—children like it—and it's pure and good.

Four 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle; then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. Thus you make a full pint—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly heals the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, famous for healing the membranes.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Henry Churchli King is chairman; Hamilton Holt, treasurer, and Stacy R. Warburton, recording secretary. These men are supported by a large committee, composed of distinguished Americans. The object of the celebration is to show our gratitude to the men who laid the foundation of a government that is based upon "Liberty in Law."

The local committee on arrangements is headed by Mayor Palma, as the honorary chairman, and the presiding officer at the celebration in Goodwyn institute; William E. Clark, executive chairman, and R. H. Pilcher, secretary-treasurer.

These will be assisted by the following representatives of the city's foremost civic organizations:

Robert Ellis, president Chamber of Commerce; C. C. Hanson, president City club; E. R. Barrow, president Rotary club; Mrs. E. G. Williamson, president Nineteenth Century club; Gus Schlect, president Kiwanis club; R. Meuter, president Lions club; Walter Chandler, president

Civilians club; Dr. A. A. Kinnannon, president West Tennessee State normal; Prof. E. Wharton Jones, superintendent Memphis city schools; Miss Chari Williams, superintendent Shelby county schools; Dr. E. E. George, general secretary Y. M. C. A.; C. C. Ogilvie, superintendent Goodwyn institute; Charles D. Johnston, librarian Goodwyn library; Miss Murilla W. Freeman, librarian Goodwyn institute library; Mrs. James H. Watson; Rev. Robert George, pastor First Congregational church; Rev. Walter M. White, pastor Linden Avenue Christian church; Dr. C. H. Williamson, pastor First Presbyterian church; Rabbi William Pinschberger, pastor Temple Israel; W. C. Johnson; Harry B. Anderson.

PEANUT CROP HEAVY.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Nov. 11.—Alabama's 1920 peanut yield will be 8,822,000 bushels, compared with 6,680,000 bushels last year, according to the monthly crop estimate of W. F. Oist, state agricultural statistician.
